I believe that in the nephrocolic ligament I have discovered the principal positive etiologic factor in nephroptosis. The belief that a nephroptosis, because of the action of this ligament, must always be secondary to and the result of a colopectosis (except when due to trauma), and consequently should not be considered separately from, but of necessity with, the prolapsed colon, explains my reason for both the form of the title of the book and the etiologic basis on which the subject is treated. My contention regarding this action of the nephrocolic ligament gives a raison d'être for, and assists materially in proving the truth of, the observation of Glenard, viz.: Enterontosis...

Reviews

I actually started looking over this publication. It really is rally interesting throgh studying period. Once you begin to read the book, it is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding.
