John, the Emperor of Constantinople, with a countless host of soldiers, chariots, and horses, together with the Prince of Antioch and the Count of Edessa, laid siege to the city of Caesarea, not far from Antioch, which now is called Caesarea the Great;1 but he took a sum of money from the besieged, raised the siege, and went his way, being angry because the aforesaid Prince and Count were slack and remiss in the enterprise, and failed to help him. Baldwin, too, the fourth King of Jerusalem, with much labour and great danger, went to take the city of Bostrum;2 but finding it more strongly fortified than he expected, and not to be taken, went home again, much vexed...
